Relationships in the Secondary Classroom - Understanding Your Own Triggers

About the course

The SSTUWA, in partnership with TLN in Melbourne, are pleased to offer this online learning opportunity for early career teachers in their first five years of teaching.

This session will support early career teachers to understand their own emotions and reactions to student behaviour. Creating a safe and supportive learning environment for students is complex and socially and emotionally demanding of teachers. Expert teachers, who consistently succeed in creating these environments, recognise when individuals 'push their buttons' and trigger responses that amplify inappropriate behaviour. The focus of this session is learning those trigger points in yourself and choosing more effective responses. The presenter will support teachers to choose appropriate responses.

About the hosts

Teacher Learning Network (TLN)

TLN is a Melbourne based, not-for-profit professional development provider supported by the Australian Education Union Victoria Branch and the Independent Education Union Victoria/Tasmania Branch. SSTUWA will be your major source of communication before the online event. Prior to the live event, SSTUWA will email you detailed instructions about how to access the online training space. TLN will then provide immediate telephone support just before the event begins on the day, and during the training if required.
